Konev Heads Red Military Command

Intended To Counter NATO

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Soviet Union and seven East European Communist states set up a unified military command Saturday to counter the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Soviet Marshal Ivan Konev was made supreme commander, with headquarters in Moscow.

The eight allies signed a 20-year mutual security and friendship treaty and a protocol grouping their military forces under a single command. Konev, the deputy Soviet defense minister, has been a Communist party member for 37 years.

The treaty ceremonies took place in a white and marble hall of Poland's Parliament building. Premiers of the eight nations—the Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania, Albania and East Germany—signed the documents.

Later, nearly 100,000 cheering residents of Warsaw jammed into Tziedzinska Square and heard top Communist leaders hail the new treaty as "a move for world peace."

Premier Nikolai Bulganin of the Soviet Union declared the Paris accords rearming West Germany sponsored "a new and dangerous militarism."

"We want peace," he cried, "but we will defend our countries by all means."

The loudest cheers and applause came when Bulganin told the crowd of Konev's appointment as supreme commander. He reminded the crowd that it was Konev who led the armies which liberated much of Poland from the Nazis.

Western diplomats believe the Russians have been in overall command of their satellites' armed forces for some time and that today's Warsaw action does not change the existing situation.

(But the pact gives the Russians a legal framework under which Soviet troops can remain in the satellite nations through individual treaties between the Soviet Union and each country.

STATE TAXPAYERS GROUP SPOTS FOUR CHRISTMAS TREE BILLS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The taxpayers Federation of Illinois said Saturday it has spotted four "Christmas Tree" appropriations totaling $147,000 in bills pending before the General Assembly.

Measures in the past which allotted tax funds to private organizations came to be known as Christmas Tree bills on the theory that they placed the state in the role of Santa Claus.

They were either eliminated or vetoed by former Gov. Stevenson in 1951 after the Schaefer Commission study on state government recommended their discontinuance.

The federation in a statement tabbed these as Christmas tree items: $17,000 for the Illinois Horticultural Society in the Agriculture Department's appropriation bill; $12,000 for the Spanish-American War Veterans Commission in an omnibus appropriation for commissions; $76,000 in the Aeronautics Department appropriation bill; $12,000 for the Civil Air Patrol, described as an organization of civilian fliers; and $42,200 in the omnibus bill to help pay expenses of veterans organizations.

PONY BOLTS. KILLS BOY, 7

CARLYLE, Ill. (AP) — A 7-year-old boy was fatally injured Saturday when a pony he was playing with bolted and dragged him half a mile down a gravel road and highway.

The victim, Tommy Kannall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kannall of Beckmeyer, Ill., died several hours after the accident of head injuries in a Breez Hospital.

Slavs Hail Meeting With Soviet As Step Toward Cooperation

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Yugoslavia Saturday hailed the coming Belgrade conference of Yugoslav and Soviet government leaders as another step in an attempt to improve world relations.

The Foreign Office, amplifying a brief communiqué, issued a statement that "certain outstanding questions" would be discussed and clarified in the meeting.

Branko Draskovic, chief of the Foreign Office information section, read the statement at a news conference but declined to answer questions.

Gen. Summerall, Oldest Ranking Soldier, 88, Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Charles Pelt Summerall, Army chief of staff under President Calvin Coolidge, died today at Walter Reed Hospital. He was 88.

The old general had been in failing health for months. He entered the hospital last August. Death came at 11:50 a. m. EDT today, the hospital announced.

Summerall, who held the top Army command in 1926-30, had been the Army's oldest ranking soldier since the death of Gen. Peyton C. March on April 13 at the age of 90. March was World War I chief of staff.

On retiring as chief of staff, Summerall became president of the Citadel, South Carolina State Military College at Charleston, S. C., serving there for a dozen years.

His successor as chief of staff was Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

A native of Lake City, Fla., Summerall was graduated from West Point in 1882.

He won military honors in the Philippine Insurrection and the Boxer Rebellion in China early in this century and later attained high command in World War I.

Gen. Summerall is survived by a son, retired Army Col. Charles P. Summerall Jr., Belmont, Mass.; a grandson, Charles P. Summerall III, now a student at Harvard Medical School, and a granddaughter, Mrs. John C. Smith, Rochester, N. Y.

Over 4,000 Answer Billy Graham Call

LONDON (AP) — Between 4,000 and 5,000 persons stamped to the green playing field at Wembley Stadium Saturday night when Billy Graham called for "Decisions for Christ."

The American evangelist conducted the first of one week's revival meetings in the great football stadium which accommodates 100,000 spectators.

The night was unseasonably cold, and there were spatters of rain. There were blank patches among the tiers of seats but police estimated that between 70,000 and 75,000 persons were present.

Many thousands came by special buses from communities all over southern England, and special trains came into four stations serving the Wembley area in north London.

Darkness fell as Graham—seen by most of the spectators as a tiny figure in a distant spotlight—moved from his sermon into his appeal to make decisions to lead Christian lives. At that moment floodlights were turned on and the playing field became a vivid green.

Drop Of Nerve Gas In Eye Of Person Enough To Kill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nerve gas is deadly. The "G" gas is produced at the Rocky Mountain Arsenal of the Army in Colorado.

The first aid handbook was prepared at the laboratories of the Army Chemical Center, Edgewood Arsenal, Md.

In discussing various ways in which the deadly material can be absorbed, the handbook warns that rapid absorption is possible into circulating blood through the structure of the eye.

"Without treatment even a small droplet or agent in the eye may represent a fatal dose," the handbook said.

Nerve gases—there are several types—are a group of organic esters of phosphoric acid derivatives, virtually colorless and odorless.

The handbook gives a timetable for death from nerve gas when a man inhales a heavy dose of the vapor. In 5 to 15 minutes the circulatory system would collapse, bringing death.

The Chemical Warfare Service, in an earlier, general discussion of the weapon, said nerve gas is "designed to destroy life with sub-

Ward's Directors Name John Barr As Top Man

CHICAGO (AP) — The long, bitter struggle for Montgomery Ward & Co. wound up Saturday with John Barr, 47, as top man.

Barr — a relatively obscure Ward executive when the fight began last August — was named chairman and president at the first meeting of the new directors of the firm.

Directors met immediately after election inspectors brought in the final tally on votes cast at the April 22 annual meeting. This showed, as expected, that Ward's management placed six members and Louis Wolfson three members on the nine man board.

Wolfson, 43, had hoped to gain control by electing at least five directors, but he appeared to be satisfied to go along with the new setup at the big mail order and retail firm. He felt, however, that Ward's should have a different man as president while Barr serves as chairman.

In an interview Wolfson said he wouldn't stage a proxy contest for control next year, unless Ward's management tried to throw him off the board. In that case, he said, he'd fight.

Dulles To Report On Negotiations For Big Four Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — With President Eisenhower as his "announcer," Secretary of State Dulles will report to the nation Tuesday night on negotiations for a Big Four meeting and other historic events.

Dulles will speak in the President's office in the presence of Ranking Cabinet colleagues and his words will be broadcast by TV and radio. He will be introduced by the President.

Dulles will report on all aspects of his current mission to Europe, including the seating of West Germany as a member of the Atlantic Alliance in ceremonies at Paris, talks with British and French leaders on the IndoChina crisis and the signing of an Austrian peace treaty in Vienna tomorrow.

But major interest focused on the prospects for top-level Big Four talks to ease world tensions. Dulles will have full opportunity to assess at first hand Foreign Minister Molotov's reaction to the Big Four session plans. He was meeting with Molotov and the foreign ministers Saturday in Vienna.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty disclosed that Dulles will return to Washington Monday and broadcast to the nation from President Eisenhower's office Tuesday night between 5 and 5:30 p.m. Central Standard Time.

All four national TV networks will carry the report at that time. The radio networks will record it for later broadcast: ABC beginning at 8 p.m. EDT, Mutual at 9:30 p.m., EDT, CBS and NBC at 10:30 p.m., EDT.

Austria's seven million people, largely mountain folk, are already rejoicing in advance of the signing Sunday of a state treaty. Ratification by the signatory powers should be completed by the end of the year.

But Austrian government leaders agree, a long hard road is ahead to prevent what could be a greater catastrophe than 10 years of occupation. They speak of the danger — distant but nevertheless there — that this central European country the size of Maine could fall into the Russian web by a series of economic crises.

Austria is not rich nor self-sufficient.

The Austrian people are 88 percent Roman Catholic and want no part of communism.

But the Austrian economy is not on very sound ground. Payments Austria must make to Russia for the return of former Nazi properties will be a heavy drain on the nation's wealth. The period of readjustment is going to bring many difficulties. It could also bring political consequences — although probably not for some years.

Research indicates that drafts, chilling, wetting and other discomforts have little effect on common cold infections.

Our Saviour's Fund Campaign Reviewed

Our Saviour's Hospital advisory board, meeting in regular quarterly session Friday night, heard a review of the campaign and received word of the official continued accreditation of the institution by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

"Caution is the watchword," Edward C. Shultz, general campaign chairman, told the group. "We must not be misled by the significant accomplishment indicated by a close review of the statistics."

To illustrate his point he stated 1831 persons pledged a current total of $349,587.00. "Even though campaign production has been gratifying, and substantial gifts are still coming in, the actual dollar need for construction modernization far surpasses the cash on hand and the edges receivable," he said.

Dr. Victor Sheppard, president of the board, told of the thinking of campaign leadership with reference to future action. He stated: "A number of committee meetings have been held with the result that all the leaders concerned feel the immunity will meet the obligation which rests in this mutual health enterprise. Therefore, the program will continue as may be appropriate."

Myrtle C. Reynolds, treasurer of the fund, reported that the recent audit letter project completed with donors proved highly satisfactory. Almost 60% of the letters were returned and the margin of error indicated was less than 1%. Those have since been corrected to the satisfaction of the donors concerned, Reynolds said. He noted further that collections are proceeding well with 1730 givers having fulfilled their pledge commitments.

Sister M. Magdala, C.S.C. administrator, told the board official accreditation is a continuation of the approval the hospital has had for some years. The study made covered hospital administration, service to patients, the medical staff and facilities. She emphasized that the reviewing physicians making the report for the Joint Commission recommended construction be moved forward as quickly as possible in light of the best service to the area.

Waverly Woman's Club Enjoys May Luncheon

WAVERLY—The May luncheon held last Friday afternoon at 1 in the dining room of the Methodist church marked the close of the season's activities of the Waverly Woman's Club. There were 87 club members and guests present to enjoy the delicious luncheon served by the Mizpah Class of the church. Spring flowers were used as decorations on the dining tables and throughout the rooms.

Following the luncheon, the president, Mrs. Winnifred Strawn, asked the group to gather in the social room, where a brief business meeting was conducted and the program held.

The club voted to contribute $10 toward the recreation program to be sponsored here this summer by the KP lodge. The president announced that the club's scrap book had won first place in the district contest, and also that in the district poetry contest two Waverly members, Mrs. Fred Robison and Mrs. N. A. Baldwin, won first and second place, respectively. These ladies then read their poems, which were greatly enjoyed by the audience. Mrs. Robison's poem being entitled "Pictures," and Mrs. Baldwin's, "Thoughts."

The first speaker on the program was Mrs. W. G. Burnsmier of Mason City, who is the president of the 20th District Federation. She extended greetings to the members, and mentioned several reasons why women should be interested in federation work, and urged that all be loyal and work together for the best interest of the club.

The program chairman, Mrs. Wm. H. Jones, then introduced Mrs. Homer McLaren of Springfield, who talked in a most interesting and convincing manner on a subject which she is well qualified to discuss, "Contests and How to Win Them." She is a writer, a speaker and teacher, a class in adult education in Springfield. Contests and trying to win them is Mrs. McLaren's hobby. She related many of her own experiences in submitting contest entries and winning prizes, she having received many prizes on entries sent in on just about any kind of a contest.

Mrs. McLaren told what to do, and what not to do, in preparing entries in contests of all kinds, that the rule laid down for a contest must be strictly observed and that winning a contest is not usually just luck. She said that 87 per cent of the entries in a contest are disqualified before they ever get to the judges, because the contestants has not followed the rules. She mentioned that there are from three to five different kinds of judging systems for contests, and one must be familiar with these, and know who is to be judge of a contest, in order to submit the type of answer that will be most likely to receive consideration. From saving wrappers and box tops and composing an accompanying story, on to limericks and name contests, Mrs. McLaren emphasized the fact that one must enter a contest with the thought of winning, develop a positive mind and a success attitude, and she closed with the thought, He will win who thinks he can."

There were five children present.

Miss Olive Burnett will be hostess to the Household Science Department of the Waverly Woman's Club for their last meeting of the year, at her home Friday, May 20 at 2:30 p.m.

The roll call response will be a Fashion Note and the program will consist of a fashion show, of which Mrs. H. R. Burnett is chairman. The refreshment committee for the afternoon are Mrs. Wm. H. Jones, Mrs. Leland Wemple, Mrs. W. E. Swift and Miss Olive Burnett.

At the home of Mrs. J. L. Smetters the May meeting of the Child Welfare Department of the Woman's Club met Wednesday, with Mrs. W. W. McConnell as hostess, assisted by Mrs. Clarence Mies.

This was the annual guest day meeting, and 16 guests were present, including three charter members, Mrs. Wilson M. Smith, Mrs. Stella Wyle and Mrs. Ethel Beatty.

The department chairman, Mrs. Claude Ross, named committees for the coming year during the business session, and Mrs. Robert Hughes was voted into membership in the club.

During the program period, Mrs. McConnell presented a history of the organization, including a list of the first officers, charter members, early roll calls and programs. This presentation was enlarged upon by incidents recalled by the charter members present. It was mentioned that the Well Child conference sponsored by the organization was begun in 1944 and was the first project undertaken by the club.

At the conclusion of the program, tea, punch, cake, nuts and mints were served.

Former Roosevelt Pilot Speaks To Carrollton Lions

CARROLLTON — At the dinner meeting of the Carrollton Lions Club held Thursday evening in the Presbyterian church, Otis Bryan, a former pilot of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, discussed the personalities of Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin as he saw them.

Bryan, a World War II veteran, was in the U. S. Air Force and pilot of the late President Roosevelt on his flights to Yalta, Teheran and Casablanca. On these flights, and during the conferences which were held among the Big Three, he had an opportunity to form personal opinions concerning the characters of the three top men of that day.

Bryan also flew some missions for King Ibad Saud and was influential in starting air lines in Ethiopia, Egypt, Iran, Iraq and Saudi Arabia.

At present Bryan is the treasurer of the United Propane Company of Kansas City which recently purchased the Reif Gas Company in this city. Bryan was introduced to the group by Attorney William G. Vogt.

The Carrollton Bank announced their plan for purchasing 22 parka jackets for the football team of the Carrollton Community Union High School at a cost of $10 each after a talk had been made by Coach Mason Holmes in which he stressed the need for such jackets to safeguard the health of the players and also displayed one. The announcement of the gift was made by J. J. Eldred, T. Hough and Francis Vaughn, representatives of the Carrollton Bank, who are also members of the Lions Club.

The club voted to sponsor a boy at Boy's State this year after the recommendation was made by Paul Pressler. Dr. C. E. Whiteman and L. A. Hardaway were named members of the nominating committee to select the officers for the ensuing year. Elmer Lukeman was named program chairman for the Lions Meeting May 26.

Pittsfield High Seniors To Visit Washington, D.C.

PITTSFIELD — Fifty-one seniors of a class of 65 who will graduate from the Pittsfield high school on Thursday, May 27, will leave by bus on Sunday morning, May 22, for Decatur, where they will board a special Wabash train enroute to Washington, D. C. for their spring vacation trip.

They will change to a Pennsylvania train at Fort Wayne, Ind., and arrive in the nation's capital Monday morning at 7:30. They will be accompanied by their sponsor, Eldon Fesler, a faculty member, and Mrs. Fesler.

Expenses of the trip will be paid by the senior class with funds they have raised during the year in various ways for the purpose. President of the class is Dennis Heavener.

They plan to visit among other things, the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial, the Congressional Library, the Smithsonian Institute, Arlington Cemetery, the Pentagon, the Archives building, the Senate Chambers and the House of Representatives, and of course the White House.

The seniors are in a gay, holiday mood and are with anticipation for setting out on their four-day fun packed, crowded, sightseeing days while visiting the nation's capitol, and will probably be ready to roll into bed as they reach their homes again. The memory of the trip will be an inspiration to them, as it has always been to those who have visited the historic city for the first time.

Boys Sell Soap For Camp Expense

Fifteen to twenty young boys were turned loose Saturday selling boxes of complexion soap. The young salesmen are endeavoring to make money for the expenses for summer camp at Camp Pella, located near Pere Marquette Park. The summer camp is arranged each year for the boys through the local YMCA.

For two weeks the junior salesmen will offer the box of Maxine brand soap manufactured by Swift and Company, four bars to a box, to the general public. A portion of the profit will go to the boys. They do not pay for the sales privilege, just purchase the soap and are only obligated to pay for as much soap as they can sell.

The boys gathered Saturday morning at the Youth Center where the YMCA secretary passed out the boxes to the boys.

ARMY TELEPHONES GET A FIELD PROMOTION

ARMY SIGNAL CORPS MEN are now using a new, portable telephone system that handles three times as many conversations over a single cable as the Korea and World War II systems. Basic equipment for the system is contained in units the size of large suitcases, which can be handled by one or two men. These units are stacked on top of each other. The "carrier" principle used for the system allows twelve conversations to share the same cable by using a different frequency for each. This system can be used up to 200 miles away. Another, a four-channel system, is used for distances up to 100 miles. Several systems linked together can form a chain of communication of about a thousand miles. Behind this new setup lie many recently-developed miniaturized parts that reduce the size and weight of equipment, which can withstand desert heat and arctic cold.

PLAYING CASEY JONES—Oogolook, an Eskimo boy, lives on Baffin Island in the Arctic, but he still likes to play train engineer just as boys do the world over. Repeater amplifies the conversations coming over four-channel system. Signal Corps men assemble terminal units of portable twelve-channel system.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was caught in the grip of caution this week, and prices declined.

For nearly three weeks, the stock market has been going down gradually, without urgency, without undue pressure.

The normal investor or trader in Wall Street this week was faced with a complicated array of problems. They ranged all the way from the probable outcome of international diplomatic talks at the highest level, domestic economic factors, the technical position of the market itself, on down to the vagaries of individual stocks he might own or want to own.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced only one day, the final session of the week, and it lost $1.80 in the five days. It closed at $162.50. That is $4.30 under the record high established April 26 just before the present decline got underway.

This week on the international front, the green light was given to a major four-power conference, and at the same time Russia made enough concessions to assure an Austrian independence treaty.

Wall Street had to guess whether that means the beginning of the end of the cold war, and if so, will defense industries cut back their activities.

From Washington came another worry for Wall Street—a congressional committee put a probing finger on profits being made from defense contracts.

In the future was the question whether automobile workers would strike to enforce their bargaining demands next month. A strike in motor plants would affect not only that industry but also steel, railroads, and all suppliers of the companies involved.

Woman's Club Has Spring Banquet

The Annual Spring Banquet of the Arenzville Woman's Club was held on Thursday, May 12, 6:30 p.m. at the Virginia Country Club with 40 members and guests present. Arrangements were made by the social committee consisting of Mrs. Fred Knight, Mrs. William Jones, Mrs. Don Gish, Mrs. James Smith, Mrs. Florence Nible, and Mrs. M. D. Hernan.

The business meeting was conducted by the President, Mrs. Arthur Kleinschmidt. Secretary's report by Mrs. Geo. Morrison and Treasurers report by Miss Marguerite Campbell. The various committee chairmen gave reports of the work done during the past year. A report of the District Convention held on April 15 in Virginia was given by Mrs. William Jones. Roll call was answered by stating "What I'd like on next Year's Program." Seventeen members were presented a red rose for perfect attendance during the past Club year.

Mrs. Harold Kruse was in charge of the program which consisted of vocal solo by Mrs. Margery Robertson accompanied by Mrs. Harold Wessler. A very impressive memorial service was held with Mrs. J. E. Peck in charge, honoring Mrs. Frank Craven and Mrs. Lee Beard.

The speaker of the evening was Joseph W. Hobbs, Mason County Supt. of Schools who is a very interesting and inspiring speaker. His three main points were Courage, Friendship, and Faith.

Mrs. Robertson again sang three solo numbers accompanied by Mrs. Wessler. Her final number was "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

Mrs. Kleinschmidt then declared the meeting adjourned and closed another successful club year to be resumed again next October.

I. C. Trackmen Cop Home Triangular Meet

Blackburn Is Second, Quincy Third; Larry Tharp High Point Man

Coach Al Rosenberger's Illinois College Blueboys thindians took first place Saturday in the first inter-collegiate track meet in Jacksonville since 1949, a triangular duel on the Jacksonville High School athletic field.

The Blueboys copped the cup with 97 points. Blackburn College finished second with 88, and Quincy College brought up the rear with 27.

I. C.'s Larry Tharp, a senior on the hill, emerged high point man with 174.

Girl Driver Stars In Auto Thrill Show Tuesday

Visitors to the Jacksonville Fairgrounds will get a chance to meet in person, one of America's outstanding thrill and entertainment personalities on Tuesday night, May 17, starting at 8:00 p. m. (CST) in front of the fairgrounds grandstand.

That's when the famous Jimmie Lynch Death Dodgers appear here for a two hour show, with a pretty 25-year old girl as one of its star attractions.

The girl is Miss Patricia Jones, who is now starting her third year as a member of the Death Dodgers, and who is regarded as the country across, as one of the top stunt-drivers in the country.

For Pat, automobiles and dare-devilry are nothing new. It was her love for automobiles which eventually caused her to become a member of the Death Dodgers.

In 1951 and 1952, Pat was racing stock cars around Wichita, Kansas, her home, and at Alva and Enid, Oklahoma, against both men and women, and she was more than holding her own.

When an opportunity presented itself to join the Death Dodgers, Pat jumped at the chance, and to say that she has been an outstanding contribution is putting it mildly.

Pat spent her first year, doing nothing but crash rolling automobiles; but last year, in addition to the dangerous crash rollovers, Pat also moved up to the tricky ramp driving routines which have made

Pat famous.

In any event, she'll be in action along with the rest of the Death Dodgers, for the Lions Club sponsored events in front of the grandstand at the fairgrounds.

Lions Club members are now selling tickets at a special reduced price.

200 Tune Up For Sports Car Race

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP) — More than 200 sports car drivers powered their racers around Cumberland's Municipal Airport today, tuning up for the year's first big classic sponsored by the Sports Car Club of America.

The weather bureau predicted skies would clear late this afternoon and said it probably will be only partly cloudy when the races start Sunday morning.

About 275 drivers are expected to check in and go through the required inspections today.

One of the early arrivals was Jim Kimberly of Chicago, who collected more points last year than any other driver participating in events sponsored by the SCCA.

Dodgers Lash 16 Hits, Batter Redlegs 13-2

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers, who played in Crosley field last season as if it were their home ball park, made themselves comfortable Saturday with a 13-2 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

The National League pacers exploded in the seventh inning for seven runs which included a grand slam homer by Carl Furillo and a two-run circuit blow by Duke Snider.

Furillo had gone hitless 13 previous times at bat before slugging his first pitch over the leftfield wall. It was his ninth homer of the season and the sixth grand slammer in his major league career. Beside the Snider homer, the Duke doubled and hit two singles.

While the Brooklyn slingers had their field day, the vaunted Red power was held at bay until the ninth inning by masterful pitching of John Podres. Then Wally Post, who Podres struck out thrice, loosened with a homer while Ted Kluszewski was aboard.

Last season the Dodgers won nine of their 11 Crosley field games and in their first appearance in Cincinnati in 1955 they indicated they intend to duplicate the feat.

Howard Triples In 9th To Spark Yank Win Over Tigers

NEW YORK (AP) — Elston Howard's second triple of the game drove in the tying and winning runs as the New York Yankees came from behind with a three-run ninth inning rally to defeat the Detroit Tigers 7-6 Saturday.

Sophomore Osgood Munroe captured both the high and low hurdles for Illinois College.

Ed Harrell, an I. C. sophomore best known for his basketball talents, took first in the shot put, second in the discus throw and fourth in the javelin throw.

Blackburn College fielded a well-balanced team and had a fine distance man in Greenhields, who took the mile and two-mile runs. Quincy was never in the running.

The victory was Illinois College's first in track competition this year. The Blueboys resumed intercollegiate track under the guidance of Al Rosenberger this year following a long postwar layoff.

Macon pilot Pepper Martin, former Cardinal star, was faced with the same decision which confronted Cub manager Stan Hack Thursday. Pete Spasoff hurled a no-hitter against Savannah recently but the 22-year-old southpaw walked 10 men. His wildness almost caused him to be taken out in the 8th inning as he walked three men in a row. Following the third free pass, Martin went to the mound and told the young hurler to get the next man out or else.

Sam Jones and Stan Hack must have had a similar agreement Thursday when the Cub hurler walked three straight in the 9th before striking out the next three and registering the first no-hitter of the season. Hack said later one more walk and Jones was through. "Toothpick," as Jones is called, ended his "hall of fame" exhibition in dramatic fashion. This corner was listening to that final inning with Don Painter and as bad as we hate to admit it, he called the turn—three straight strikeouts. We had predicted he wouldn't finish the game. Oh well, somebody has to be wrong.

—0—

George O'Donnell, of Winchester fame, is enjoying a 3-2 record with Hollywood according to the latest figures released by the Sporting News. The righthander's last win was in relief while he lost his last starting assignment to Los Angeles.

—0—

Paul Pettit, the 100 thousand dollar bonus pitcher, was attempting a comeback as a first sacker for this same Hollywood club. However, after hitting .114 in 14 games he was optioned to Mexico City in the Mexican League.

—0—

Ken Johnson, former Cardinal and Phillie pitcher, recently hurled a 12-3 win for Toronto in the International League. Johnson, plagued by wildness while in the big leagues, walked just three while striking out 10. He lost his next start 4-3 but this time he walked only two batters.

—0—

Instead of having a celebrity toss out the first ball, Rochester's general manager George Sisler, Jr. turned the tables by having the entire Red Wings starting team plus manager Harry Walker and coach Lou Kahn toss a ball apiece into the stands.

—0—

Omaha, making a strong bid to capture the American Association pennant in its first year in the triple A circuit, is being sparked by the pitching of Stan Miller and Willard Schmidt, a couple ex-Cards. As of May 3, Miller had three straight victories and a record of allowing just two runs, both homers, and 12 hits in 29 innings. He had 26 whiffs during this period.

—0—

Schmidt on the other hand lost a 1-0 game on opening day but has since won four straight. The fireballing righthander has 41 strikeouts in 43 innings and walked only three men in each of his last two starts.

Texas A&M Gets Two Years' Probation For Recruiting Violations

BY MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (P)—Southwest Conference faculty representatives Saturday slapped a two-year probation on Texas A&M for recruiting policy violations. It was the stiffest penalty in conference history.

Letters of intent signed for A&M by prospective athletes since April 15 also were cancelled, releasing an unknown number of high school seniors to enroll at other conference schools if they so desire.

It also banned post-season contests by Aggie athletic teams.

No details of the rules violations were released.

In a prepared statement, the conference governing body said A&M coaches and alumni have violated recruiting rules despite previous warnings.

"I'm shocked," said Bear Bryant A&M athletic director and head football coach.

Bryant said the cancellation of letters of intent will hurt the Aggie recruiting program "to a certain extent."

But we have a fine freshman squad which will carry us through 1955," he said. "It simply means we'll have to revisit prospects, still hoping they will choose to come to A&M."

Under conference rules, an athlete can sign letters of intent to attend a school and thereafter other conference schools cannot contact him. This is intended to relieve pressure on the athletes and stop offering of inducements.

Interest in the Aggie athletic program has zoomed since Bryant moved there last year from Kentucky. The Aggies last fall had their largest freshman football squad in history and another bumper crop had been expected this fall.

The probation, while effective Saturday prohibits A&M from participating in any post-season athletic contest after Sept. 15. That leaves the way open for Aggie teams to take part in annual NCAA meet this year.

FACTS ABOUT AIR CONDITIONING

We realize that a cool day is a poor time to talk about air conditioning. It's also a poor time to think about your heating repairs on a hot day, but we know from past experience that it is folly to neglect either one. This being the start of the air conditioning season we invite you to visit our show room. Or if you feel that you cannot spare the time call us for a list of the names who have our units.

For once we are not going to say, "SEE US FIRST," but after you have shopped around, and are in a position to compare the appearance, performance, and simplicity of this push button unit together with an attractive price tag.

Remember that we are not selling you a last years model, that we are not offering a demonstrator as a come-on, that with us air conditioning is not a side line but an essential part of our business. That our units are secured through a large reputable distributor and carry a full factory guarantee when purchased through us at our fair price.

Dixon Springs Rebuilds Land, Kindles Hopes

On Friday, May 6, some 120 press, radio and TV editors were the guests of the staff of Dixon Springs Experiment station located in Shawneetown National Forest, Pope county.

It was the hardest day's work most of the editors had put in many a moon as they trekked over the 5,000 acre station to look over dozens of various experiments. But they enjoyed every minute of it and went home with renewed hope that, with the application of what is now known, our land will produce a high-level food supply for an ever-increasing population.

And best of all, the men at the station expect to learn a lot more within the next decade.

The land was acquired during the middle 30's by the federal government and full direction of the station was assumed by the University in 1940 under a free land use permit.

The two major problems in southern Illinois are erosion and low soil fertility. The land can be made immediately productive and still be maintained for future use by a pasture method of farming. Therefore the work is directed toward an extensive livestock and pasture program, with some 300 head of cattle and 1,000 head of breeding ewes eating away at the pasture. Some of the land that is too poor or too rough for profitable farming has been planted to trees.

The station has great value as a demonstration center. Last year there were more than 5,000 visitors.

The farm editors spent the day studying adaptability and productivity of various grasses and legumes, fertility treatments, effect of intensive grazing on pastures and animals, all-year sequence pastures, steer management, young lamb management, systems of fattening lambs, systems of feeding steers, erosion and water conservation studies, establishment and maintenance of pastures, watershed management and grain variety trials.

At noon the Hardin-Pope Home Bureau served a barbecue beef luncheon at Lake Glendale. (Note to company auditor: Everybody had to pay for his meal and it cost $1.50.)

During the noon hour Dr. W. G. Kammade,

R. J. WEBB, superintendent of Dixon Springs experiment station, stands on the bank of a trench silo as he addresses press, radio and TV editors. To his right is a wonderful meadow; across the road is a gullied mass of worthless broomsedge.

Tucked under Webb's arm is a voice amplifier. He didn't need it here. The visitors viewed the pasture and the adjoining land; they were impressed and silent.

chairman of the UI. committee in charge of the station, said "We are not here to be paternalistic. Our soil is a great natural resource, but knowledge is a great human resource, and knowledge, teamed with energy, can do much."

Yellow corn from Illinois farmland floats to markets in more than 20 different countries. Leading buyers are Great Britain, Canada, Mexico, Netherlands, Belgium and Japan. Sales for the year ending June 30 may be around 70 million bushels—about 2 3 as much as last year.

LARD AND TALLOW. Lard from Corn Belt hogs finds markets in more than 40 different countries. Leading foreign buyers are Cuba, Mexico, West Germany, Great Britain and Yugoslavia. Exports of lard this year may reach 500 million pounds—about one-third more than last year and one-fifth of total production.

We export about twice as much tallow as lard. The price of tallow is about half that of lard, so the dollar value is about the same. In the year ending June 30 we may export about a billion pounds of tallow worth 70 million dollars. Tallow from U. S. beef is sold in more than 50 countries. Among the largest buyers are Japan, West Germany, Netherlands, Mexico and Italy.

COTTON, WHEAT AND TOBACCO. In the mid-20's, exports of cotton amounted to 8 to 10 million bales annually and took half of the cotton crop. Since then, government programs "to help the farmer" have developed to give the cotton markets of the world to other producers. In the year ended last June 30, exports of cotton amounted to less than 4 million bales and to less than one-fourth of the crop. Exports of cotton have increased during the past 10 months, but some decline now appears likely.

Exports of wheat and flour last year were equal to 219 million bushels, on about one-fifth of the 1953 crop. Exports so far this year are about one-third greater than last year. Most of the wheat that is exported is moved with a subsidy. The recent subsidy rates ranged from 50 to 74 cents a bushel.

Exports of leaf tobacco in the year ended last June 30 amounted to 456 million pounds, or 22 percent of the previous crop. Exports of tobacco are continuing this year at about the same rate as last year.

Last year we shipped more than 100 other farm products ranging from apples (160 million bushels) to walnuts (three million pounds) to virtually every country on the globe.

The total volume of all farm exports this year will be equal to the output of 300,000 ordinary farms, or one of every ten in the United States.

COMMANDER RICHARD LONG, of the U. S. Navy, left Wednesday, for his home in Coronado, Calif., after several days' visit with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Long, Commander Long will be stationed in Hawaii for the coming two years and will be accompanied by his family.

Mr. and Mrs. David Dodds had as their dinner guests on Mother's Day, Mrs. Albert Coleman, Mrs. Emma Briar, Mrs. Jennie Dodds, Miss Nellie Dirren.

IRRIGATED CAVE:

STANTON, Mo. (UPI)—Now they're irrigating caves.

A $75,000 irrigation system was installed in the Meramec Caverns here by Lester B. Dill, owner. From lack of rain, some of the picturesque limestone formations and statues were becoming dry. Moisture supplied by an electric pump is keeping them fresh and full of lustre and color. It serves the three miles of cave open to the public. Dill says he thinks it's the first irrigation system for a cave.

The United States acquired the Louisiana Purchase in 1803 from France at a price estimated at four cents an acre including initial cash payment, payment of claims and interest.

Such meadows as this have produced as much as 680 pounds of beef per acre-year at Dixon Springs.

Vannier later said: "Every farmer other than the flat Illinois river bottom or upland prairie should be compelled to spend two weeks or more at Dixon Springs."

TO THE EAST, where only persimmon and broomsedge grew a few years ago, is a glorious pasture of alfalfa, ladino clover and fescue.

Standing knee-deep in the luxuriant forage are E. H. Garlich, left, Morgan County farm adviser, and Paul H. Vannier of Bluff, president of the Southern Illinois Press association.

U.S. FARM EXPORTS UP 12 TO 15 PER CENT

The sun never sets on the foreign markets for U. S. farm products. Round-the-world buyers this year will take American farm products valued at about 3.2 billion dollars, about 10 percent more than last year.

The three leading U. S. agricultural exports are cotton, wheat and flour, and tobacco. The next four most important farm exports—soybeans, corn, lard and tallow—come from Corn Belt fields and feedlots. This ranking is based on exports during the first seven months, July-January, of this fiscal year. In this period, exports of these farm products were valued as follows (in millions of dollars): cotton, 413; wheat and flour, 268; tobacco, 225; soybeans, 101; corn, 70; lard, 50; and tallow, 48.

SOYBEANS AND CORN. Some of those golden soybeans you raised may go west to Japan or Formosa, east to the Netherlands or Germany, north to Canada, south to Mexico, or to any one of more than 20 other countries. Export sales during the year ending June 30 will probably total nearly 50 million bushels, up to 15 percent from a year ago. The oil from another 3 million bushels is finding markets in 30 foreign countries. Exports this fiscal year will equal about 15 percent of the 1954 crop.

A $75,000 irrigation system was installed in the Meramec Caverns here by Lester B. Dill, owner. From lack of rain, some of the picturesque limestone formations and statues were becoming dry. Moisture supplied by an electric pump is keeping them fresh and full of lustre and color. It serves the three miles of cave open to the public. Dill says he thinks it's the first irrigation system for a cave.

The United States acquired the Louisiana Purchase in 1803 from France at a price estimated at four cents an acre including initial cash payment, payment of claims and interest.

Such meadows as this have produced as much as 680 pounds of beef per acre-year at Dixon Springs.

Grain Dealers To Meet Tuesday In Springfield

Plans have been completed for the 62nd annual convention of the Illinois Grain Dealers association to be held Tuesday and Wednesday, May 17-18, at the St. Nicholas hotel in Springfield, according to E. S. Herron of Gilman, secretary-treasurer.

Topics on the two-day program include food and drug laws administration, effective rodent and pest control, current grain and storage problems and traffic control.

U. S. Senator Everett M. Dirksen will be the speaker at the annual banquet to be held Tuesday evening.

Officers and directors of the association include M. B. Hyde, Champaign, president; Ralph B. Allen, Allerton, first vice president; G. H. Spainhower, Blandinsville, second vice president; A. B. Chrisman, Meredosia; Joe Edmunds, Lomax; D. B. Gray, Hull; L. B. McCarthy, Minonk; Leslie Markwalder, Cissna Park; Harold E. Morgan, Clifton; L. W. Railback, Weldon; Homer G. Sturm, El Paso; Willis H. Wells, Monmouth.

THE sun never sets on the foreign markets for U. S. farm products. Round-the-world buyers this year will take American farm products valued at about 3.2 billion dollars, about 10 percent more than last year.

The three leading U. S. agricultural exports are cotton, wheat and flour, and tobacco. The next four most important farm exports—soybeans, corn, lard and tallow—come from Corn Belt fields and feedlots. This ranking is based on exports during the first seven months, July-January, of this fiscal year. In this period, exports of these farm products were valued as follows (in millions of dollars): cotton, 413; wheat and flour, 268; tobacco, 225; soybeans, 101; corn, 70; lard, 50; and tallow, 48.

SOYBEANS AND CORN. Some of those golden soybeans you raised may go west to Japan or Formosa, east to the Netherlands or Germany, north to Canada, south to Mexico, or to any one of more than 20 other countries. Export sales during the year ending June 30 will probably total nearly 50 million bushels, up to 15 percent from a year ago. The oil from another 3 million bushels is finding markets in 30 foreign countries. Exports this fiscal year will equal about 15 percent of the 1954 crop.

Yellow corn from Illinois farmland floats to markets in more than 20 different countries. Leading buyers are Great Britain, Canada, Mexico, Netherlands, Belgium and Japan. Sales for the year ending June 30 may be around 70 million bushels—about 2 3 as much as last year.

LARD AND TALLOW. Lard from Corn Belt hogs finds markets in more than 40 different countries. Leading foreign buyers are Cuba, Mexico, West Germany, Great Britain and Yugoslavia. Exports of lard this year may reach 500 million pounds—about one-third more than last year and one-fifth of total production.

We export about twice as much tallow as lard. The price of tallow is about half that of lard, so the dollar value is about the same. In the year ending June 30 we may export about a billion pounds of tallow worth 70 million dollars. Tallow from U. S. beef is sold in more than 50 countries. Among the largest buyers are Japan, West Germany, Netherlands, Mexico and Italy.

COTTON, WHEAT AND TOBACCO. In the mid-20's, exports of cotton amounted to 8 to 10 million bales annually and took half of the cotton crop. Since then, government programs "to help the farmer" have developed to give the cotton markets of the world to other producers. In the year ended last June 30, exports of cotton amounted to less than 4 million bales and to less than one-fourth of the crop. Exports of cotton have increased during the past 10 months, but some decline now appears likely.

Exports of wheat and flour last year were equal to 219 million bushels, on about one-fifth of the 1953 crop. Exports so far this year are about one-third greater than last year. Most of the wheat that is exported is moved with a subsidy. The recent subsidy rates ranged from 50 to 74 cents a bushel.

Exports of leaf tobacco in the year ended last June 30 amounted to 456 million pounds, or 22 percent of the previous crop. Exports of tobacco are continuing this year at about the same rate as last year.

Last year we shipped more than 100 other farm products ranging from apples (160 million bushels) to walnuts (three million pounds) to virtually every country on the globe.

The total volume of all farm exports this year will be equal to the output of 300,000 ordinary farms, or one of every ten in the United States.

COMMANDER RICHARD LONG, of the U. S. Navy, left Wednesday, for his home in Coronado, Calif., after several days' visit with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Long, Commander Long will be stationed in Hawaii for the coming two years and will be accompanied by his family.

Mr. and Mrs. David Dodds had as their dinner guests on Mother's Day, Mrs. Albert Coleman, Mrs. Emma Briar, Mrs. Jennie Dodds, Miss Nellie Dirren.

REFUGEE LAW NOT WORKING

It seems proper to have a look at the nation's 1953 Refugee Relief Act in an atmosphere fairly free of the recent celebrated Corsi controversy. Its operations should be judged apart from the hot issue of personalities.

The law provides that, over and above regular immigration quotas, some 209,000 new refugees, escapees, and other displaced individuals who were victims of Nazi or Communist oppression may be admitted to the United States.

The refugee program is to span a three-year period ending Dec. 31, 1956. Virtually half that time has now gone by. Up to April 8 of this year, only 1081 new refugees and escapees had gained admission to this country. In addition, 562 orphans entered, as did 15,201 relatives of American citizens. Relatives are admissible anyway, under regular immigration quotas.

At the present rate of admissions, some 2100 refugees and escapees will have been admitted. This would represent almost exactly one per cent of the permissible total of 209,000.

On its face, this is a dismal showing. It is so bad, in fact, that it makes plain that something is radically wrong. Barring an unlikely heavy rush of admissions in the remaining year and a half, the general purposes of the refugee act will not be realized.

The natural question is: Why not?

Two possibilities suggest themselves. The law may contain unworkable features, or it may be badly or unsympathetically administered.

A good many men besides the controversial Edward Corsi have charged that the program is in unsympathetic hands. Scott McLeod, head of the State Department's Bureau of Security, administers the law. His critics say he is deliberately impeding the admission of refugees. He vigorously denies it.

In the nature of things, it is not easy to prove this case one way or the other.

What does seem strongly evident, however, is that the act itself has elements that work against its effective execution.

Every refugee must establish his non-subversive history under circumstances that often make clear proof impossible. Then he must be sponsored by a U. S. citizen who will guarantee him housing and a definite job.

It is hardly too much to say that the act practically requires that a person fill all the requirements of American citizenship without actually having it. Looking at it another way, it contains what amounts to a built-in veto of its general aims. Its detailed provisions are crippling.

To other nations which have known or heard of America's fabled open-heartedness in earlier decades, this law must seem a travesty. There is good reason to argue it would have been better had it never been passed.

Congress and the administration ought either to act quickly to modify the law so its stated aims can be achieved—or get rid of it.

"I See Myself Playing An Accordion"

FAMOUS BIRTHDAY

Perhaps, boys and girls, you have heard your parents talk about Dr. Salk, and his wonderful vaccine to prevent polio? Well, this is just the way people talked about Dr. Jenner long ago when they found that he had discovered a way to keep people from getting small-pox.

You may never heard of small-pox for there have been no cases of it near here for many years. And last year there was not a single case in all our big country.

This was not true before Dr. Jenner discovered how to prevent small-pox. In those days this disease made many people very, very ill. Some of them died.

Dr. Jenner heard that people who had cow-pox (a very mild illness they got from handling sick cows) never got smallpox. Dr. Jenner experimented by putting a bit of cow-pox serum under the skin of a boy.

Vaccination Works

Sure enough, just as Dr. Jenner had hoped, the serum went into the boy's blood stream, and he never caught smallpox even when he was exposed to it. Other people heard of this and came to be vaccinated.

None of these people who were vaccinated caught small-pox. When more people learned of Dr. Jenner's work, he received high honors from many nations.

You boys and girls who were born in May share the same birthday month with this great man. Dr. Edward Jenner was born in England on May 17, 1749.

On this "birding" trip we are going to wander for a whole year to find our bird that changes his coat twice a year. He'll not be hard to find either.

Perhaps you or your mother has a canary in a cage. Or maybe you've seen canaries in a pet shop.

This bird we are searching for is just as beautiful as a canary in a cage, and he can sing just as sweetly and just as many tunes. He belongs to the same family and looks very much like him.

Although many birds stay with us only part of a year, he also remains with us all the year around. The bird we shall find is the Goldfinch.

Let's go out to a field that has lots of dandelions or weeds. Here we are. Let's stop, look, and listen.

Here He Comes

Oh, we're not going to be disappointed. Here comes a little yellow bird right over our heads.

He flies just as if he were on a roller-coaster, bounding on down to a fluffy white head of a dandelion and singing a sweet note that sounds like "per-chic-o-ree" or "tip-o-ree, o-ree, o-ree." How many Goldfinches do you count?

Ten? You're right. Last week there were at least a hundred here.

Why So Happy?

Why are they so happy? Do you suppose it's because they have so many dandelion and weed seeds to eat? Maybe so.

They have another reason too: at least Mr. Goldfinch has. You see, he's just put on a new coat.

Isn't he gorgeous in that canary yellow coat trimmed in black? Mrs. Goldfinch has to be satisfied with her old dull olive-yellow dress, which she wears all the time.

Thistle Bird

Now the Goldfinch's favorite food seems to be the seeds of the thistle. In fact the Goldfinch is also called the "Thistle Bird."

In the fall Mr. Goldfinch changes his yellow coat back to the olive or brownish-grey and wears it during the winter. That's why some people don't know that the Goldfinch stays with us all winter; they miss his yellow coat.

Easy To Know

You won't have any difficulty in recognizing the Goldfinch whenever you see him. He's the only small yellow bird with black wings that we have.

Art Work Of Local Girls To Be Shown In New York Next Friday

Boys and girls, the two paintings that you see on each side of the Junior Journal Courier page today will be shown next Friday in a National Exhibition of Children's Paintings at the Galerie St. Etienne in New York City.

The painting on the left is by Susan Weller, daughter of Mrs. Samuel V. Weller of 117 Finley St. Susan is 11 years old, and is in the sixth grade at Lafayette School.

The picture on the right was painted by Judy Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Hart who recently moved to Jacksonville from McLeansboro. Judy is also in the sixth grade at Lafayette school. Mrs. Mabel Siegrist is the teacher of both these girls.

Judy and Susan's pictures were chosen from 15,000 that were submitted from 36 different states. One hundred paintings are to be shown.

Don't you suppose Judy and Susan are proud? And aren't we proud too that these Jacksonville girls' work was chosen? I wish I could be in New York Friday to see all the pictures don't you?

Sailor: You said "All hands on deck," sir.

Man: Are you a good boy?
Boy: No, I'm the kind of kid my mom doesn't want me to play with.

Driving instructor: What would you do if the car brakes suddenly failed to work?
Pupil: Hit something cheap.

Teacher: He was a great painter. Why, with one stroke of the brush he could change a smiling face into a frowning one.
Pupil: That's nothing. My dad can do that, too.

Easy Way To Enter Drawing Contest

Boys and girls, here is an easy way to enter the Junior Journal Courier drawing contest. (It ends May 31 remember).

Just take a plain postal card and draw on it. Use black crayon, very dark pencil, or ink. If you do not use a postal, be sure your drawing is not larger than 3 by 4 inches.

At the bottom of your drawing put your name, age and address.

Of course you may draw anything you want to, an igloo, a clown, or just a pretty design.

Here is something many boys and girls like to do. Roll up a piece of string and drop it on the paper.

Now draw along the string however it has fallen. With this line as a starter draw anything that you think fits. This is about like the line-drawings you have in school isn't it?

Send your drawings to —

An artist, Emmanuel Lutze, has painted the scene for us. In the center of the room is an immense globe, at least three feet across. It is turned to show Russia America which Mr. Seward later named "Alaska" for the principal peninsula which was called Oonalaska.

By the globe stands Baron Stoeckl, a tall man with a full beard.

Mr. Seward, a little man, with coarse gray hair and a large nose, sits at his writing table with a map on his knees.

Mr. Seward has a pen in his hand waiting to sign the copy of the treaty being brought into the room by a clerk. In the background stand two translators comparing Russian and American versions, and near the window sit Senator Sumner and Frederick Seward.

Cloves is the dried flower bud of a medium-sized evergreen tree that grows well only in open clearings in the humid tropics.

Is your home wired to take full advantage of Modern Electric Living?

Improving Home Wiring
Can be a Simple Job!

In most homes, the task of modernizing the electric wiring system is relatively simple and inexpensive. Your local electrical contractor can often do the job quickly and easily without disturbing your daily living routine.

here are some of the ways you can spot inadequate wiring in your home:

...lights go dim when appliances are used.
...the television picture shrinks and expands.
...the toaster or iron heats up too slowly.
...fuses blow out frequently.
...several appliances plugged into one outlet.

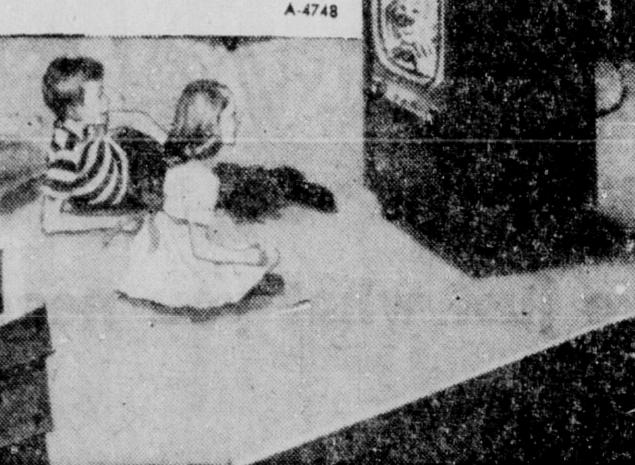

All of these are warnings that your wiring is overloaded... that you're risking trouble. Without modern wiring, your present household appliances can't operate at their best... and you can't enjoy many of the new appliances available today.

All along the power line, from power plant to you, your utility uses the most modern equipment to bring an abundant flow of low-cost electric power right to your door. Beyond that point, it's up to you. Be sure your home is wired to take full advantage of modern electric living.

CARROT TOPS TO GO: Don't hesitate to buy carrots in cellophane bags. A marketing specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says that topped carrots may even be better than those with the tops left on.

The specialist says that carrots are still alive when harvested. Leaves of living okas give off moisture. For that reason those with the greens left on will tend to dry out and lose some of their food value. High-quality carrots that are kept cool and moist after the tops have been cut off will keep their quality.

The same holds true for radishes. Topping carrots has another advantage. With the tops off they are less bulky and you won't have to pay for transportation and refrigeration of the greens which you'll discard anyway if the checker in the grocery store doesn't do it.

THE BEST THINGS COME IN SMALL PACKAGES: Next time you go to shop for fresh fruits and vegetables take a critical look at that head of lettuce you're putting in your market basket. (In all probability you've handled seven before you made your final selection, according to a recent survey.) Perhaps you haven't been aware that it's better lettuce than you've been getting in the past. The reason: many people have been concentrating on upgrading quality and millions of dollars have been spent to do so. From the grower to the retailer there's been a continual improvement in quality.

One of the biggest advancements in cutting down waste in handling at the grower level has been the trend toward a new method of cooling lettuce — vacuum cooling. The usual practice has been to pack lettuce directly from the field into crates, layering it with ice. Since the lettuce plus the ice exceeds the capacity of the crate, it means closing the crate with a hydraulic press. As a result the lettuce is often deformed, and sharp particles of crushed ice cut the leaves, causing considerable deterioration and waste by the time it reaches the market.

With the vacuum cooling method the heads are cut and packed in the crates, but instead of cooling by ice, the crates of lettuce are fed through large vacuum tubes. Here, the temperature of the lettuce is lowered from the original 60 degrees F. to 80 degrees F. to a controlled temperature of 32 degrees F. The moisture lost by the lettuce has no noticeable effect on the product. However, the maximum weight loss through evaporation is approximately 2 per cent of the lettuce by weight. For example, a head of lettuce weighing 22 ounces loses approximately half an ounce when vacuum-cooled. In terms of savings it means a few more heads per crate can be shipped.

The grower, as well as the retailer and consumer, benefits greatly from this new method. It is more economical for the grower from the standpoint of savings on ice. The buyer of vacuum-cooled lettuce has less loss from waste formerly caused by water soaking, discoloration and ice bruising. As a result, a greater percentage of lettuce stays crisp in the cellophane bags—both in the store and the home refrigerator. They report that the cost of packaging is more than offset by the substantial savings effected through a reduction in waste and spoilage losses.

In actual store tests, it was found that sales actually increased when lettuce was packaged. As industry well knows, the final decision as to the success of packaged lettuce lies with the consumer. To get her reaction, a recent survey was made by the Du Pont Company. It was found that 62 percent of the consumers prefer to buy lettuce packaged in cellophane. Their reasons: it is cleaner, more sanitary, keeps fresher and crispier, is easier to store—no washing or wrapping. They also mentioned it is not "messy" in handling—water doesn't drip on other items in their shopping bag. Also, the lettuce seems more select. There's less waste because you can use the outside leaves.

From all indications, it looks as if most lettuce will be packaged within the next two or three years because both consumers and retailers are benefiting from it.

Donald Stokes, U.S.D.A. packaging expert, estimated that about 30 percent of all produce is now packaged in consumer-size containers. The trend toward consumer size packaging is related to the strong trend toward self-service in food stores. Lettuce is only one of the thousands of products which, because it is packaged, means a savings all along the line. It is not only of better quality, is cleaner and more sanitary, but helps the consumer who's serving herself these days, shop faster and easier.

Brashares will present devotional addresses each day, Wednesday through Saturday, and will give the sermon at 10:45 a.m. on Sunday, June 12. After opening the conference Wednesday, June 8, at 7 p.m., Bishop Brashares will have as the subjects of his devotional addresses on succeeding days: "The Sovereignty of Choice," "The Autocracy of Fact," "The Supremacy of Love," and for the Sunday morning worship service, "The Priority of Christ."

Each day of the conference, June 8 through the 11, Radio Station WLDS will carry special broadcasts of conference programs between the hours of 1:30 and 1:45 p.m. The Rev. Glenn Sutton is in charge of the radio broadcasts this year.

Indiana Man To Speak

The Thursday, Friday and Saturday morning worship services at 8 will be held in the college chapel. Inspirational services will be held Thursday and Friday evenings at 8 with messages by Dr. Merrill B. McFall, pastor of the First Methodist Church and director of the Wesley Foundation at Indiana University, Bloomington, Indiana. Dr. McFall graduated from DePauw University, where he also received a doctor of divinity degree. His theological training was obtained at Garrett Biblical Institute. He led the Indiana Conference Delegation to the general conference in 1948, and in 1950 he was the good will ambassador of the Methodist Churches in Germany. A Tribute To Armed Forces Day!

The army, the navy, the air force, the marines, the generals, the admirals, the sergeants, the doughboys . . . God bless them all on this day set aside to pay homage to our men in uniform! Never in the history of our country have our armed forces meant so much to us as they do today; never have they been such a bulwark of strength and inspiration against aggression. We humbly pray for the preservation of every man . . . and woman . . . in Uncle Sam's protective services and cherish the day when their efforts will be directed only in the cause of permanent Peace!

DEATH OF A LEGEND

XXX

COLE stepped back. The flicking slide of his right hand caught them all off guard. The big pistol glinted dully in the dying light.

"Jesse, get out. Get out before I kill you."

Jesse's guns were holstered at his sides. He still had his rifle in his hands from the scouting of the farm. He made no move for the pistols, did not lift the carbine.

"Turn around," said Cole, "and walk out."

Jesse looked at Frank. "I'm coming," said Frank, and stood up.

"Anybody else?"

It was Cole's turn now, his eyes never leaving Jesse. Nobody answered, nobody moved.

"Once you're through that door," he said, "don't never let me see you again."

It was the last Cole Younger ever saw of Jesse James.

"I ought to have killed him. I ought to have killed him a long time ago."

A hundred yards from the farmhouse, the brush closed behind Frank and Jesse. As it did, the latter whirled on his older brother, eyes blinding furiously.

"You nimby, you near fixed it for sure!"

"Fixed what? What are you talking about?" Frank stammered his genuine bewilderment.

"The grays, you idjut. You told them about the grays!"

"What if I did, Jess? What are you getting at?" Frank's puzzlement held for another brief moment. Even as it did, he had his answer in the cold spread of Jesse's grin.

"There's two horses and there's you and me. It's why I come back from the barn at all—to tell you that we was going out, just the two of us. Cole only made it easy, that's all."

Frank nodded. There was no more room for words. Nothing more to be said. Jesse had said it all. The latter, not even waiting for his brother's nod, had already turned and started through the brush again. Frank followed him. Jesse always had a plan. You could take it or leave it.

THE hue and cry after the Northfield fugitives, which had almost died down following the discovery of their tied horses at German Lake, burst into full clamor again with the news of the theft of the two gray horses near Mankato and the subsequent, successful dash of those two grays and their riders through a picket-line post on the Crystal Lake Road west of the latter town.

The four outlaws remaining in the abandoned Mankato farmhouse left that refuge some time during the morning of Thursday, Sept. 14, within hours after Jesse and Frank had fled it.

Early the following Thursday morning, Sept. 21, they were sighted crossing the dairy pasture of the Suborn farm, near Madelia, by the farmer-owner's 17-year-old son, Oscar.

Madelia is a bare 25 miles southeast of Mankato.

Twenty-five miles in seven days and nights! Averaging but a little better than three miles in each 24 hours, and thus over a region again swarming with the bandit's nest of official posses and rural pickets stirred up by Jesse's desertion. Yet they were not once seen until that fatal morning outside Madelia.

Then, following Oscar Suborn's reported sighting of the fugitives, posses from Madelia and nearby St. James surrounded the farm. Four hours after the first alarm, 200 men were converging on Hanska Slough, the latest reported sighting of the fleeing outlaws.

Hanska Slough was in reality a backed-up side channel of the Watonwan River. Below the slough the channel spread out in a shallow, breast-deep swamp pond called Hanska Lake. Below the pond, the channel proper of the Watonwan resumed.

First cry of fox was raised by the posse of Madelia's Sheriff Glispin. Prying along the west shore of Lake Hanska, he suddenly saw the fugitives struggling along through the mudflats about 20 yards out from his own, the west, bank of the lake. He waved his men to take cover in the reeds, cautiously studied the four outlaws.

ALL of them were unkempt and filthy, with heavy, rain-wet beards. Their clothes were shredded and ripped and the sheriff at once noted the absence of the famous linen dusters. The largest of the bandits, apparently their leader, was walking in front of the others, leaning heavily on a crutch-like stick. The two following the first man were nearly as large as he. One of them appeared badly wounded, for the other was supporting him bodily. Glispin now rose up, out of the reeds and shouted the order to halt. He might as well have ordered the rain to cease falling. The bandits, waved on by the big man in the lead, ran for the shelter of a low mudbank. They got safely behind it, and the silence which ensued was more unnerving than any gunfire. Sheriff Glispin took the opportunity to re-evaluate his position.

His posse was small, only five men. The mudflats were naked, offering no cover for an approach toward the waiting outlaws. The time for the kill, the Madelia officer at once decided, was not yet. His low orders to his men were as quick as they were wise: "Pull back, boys. We'd better wait for some of the others to come up."

In his terse, later explanation of the retreat, Glispin only remarked, "They were all mighty desperate-looking men, though the fourth one wasn't near as big as the others."

The Madelia sheriff might well have added that it was a chore beyond the capacities of most men to be as big as a Younger.

Since the Illinois State Historical Society has met in Jacksonville this week, it is hoped that someone will be stimulated to write a history of Morgan County in the Twentieth Century.

Under the caption, "IT HAPPENED IN ILLINOIS" the Public Library is also displaying a number of novels with Illinois locale. This collection indicates that it is not necessary to go to the Far West or to the Deep South to find material for an interesting story.

Although the United States has 70 places called Summit, only 11 of them are large enough to have postoffices.

I usually "leave it to George" too, but in looking over a used car, the oil on the dip stick and the dip stick itself can tell you a lot about what the car looks like inside.

Here's one simple test that's effective: wipe the oil off the dip stick (after getting your shirt sleeves out of the way) and if the surface of the stick is pock-marked or etched on the part that is normally below the surface of the oil.

If it is, that's a sign of acid. Most fuels contain a trace of acid and if the engine is running cold, or a cylinder is missing, unburned fuel, with this acid, makes its way into the crankcase and will eventually attack polished steel surfaces, such as the crankshaft journals, the cams, the links and pins in the timing chain—and, of course, the dip stick.

And while we're about it, this is the time to point out the importance of changing oil frequently. This acid action against the car's vital insides is the penalty of letting old oil work its worst against your engine.

I've already mentioned the trick of watching for blue smoke from the exhaust (blue, not black or gray) that is another easy trick for sizing up a car.

These are some of the simple tests anyone can perform when shopping around for a used car. Before a car comes on to our lot, of course, trained people make sure that it's a good buy for the owner to whom we'll pass it on.

But while you're shopping around, we want you to satisfy yourself about the car you're looking at. Look it over, have the kids jump up and down on the seats if you want, then take it out for a test drive.

Oven Comes Clean

Without Scraping

You don't have to scrub or scraps your oven clean when you use "ITS".

The magic of chemistry made up this jelly-like formula. Applied with a brush that comes with the jar, you merely let

"ITS" stand for two hours, then wipe it off with a damp rag.

Every bit of dried foodstuff and burnt-on grease comes away, leaving your oven like new. Non-inflammable, "ITS"

also works well on chrome.
